

"Best Practices in Jesuit Higher Education"
Call for submitting best practices in Reconciliation, Peace, and Mission Integration in Jesuit higher education institutions.

The Best Practices in Jesuit Higher Education Project is pleased to announce a call for articles for its third issue, which will focus on Reconciliation, Peace, and Mission Integration in Jesuit universities and colleges.

The "Best Practices in Jesuit Higher Education Project" is a global initiative of the International Association of Jesuit Universities (IAJU), intending to collect and share quality content on best practices and know-how of our institutions. In addition to promote academic collaboration, encourage reflection, and identify strategic colleagues in common areas and themes.

The best practices selected will be published and promoted in the IAJU's website, social media, newsletter, infographics, and the project's magazine. Jesuit Higher Education Regional Networks will also disseminate these articles in their own media. Afterwards, a series of Webinars with selected authors will be organized to promote discussion and networking among the Ignatian community around the world.

For this purpose, faculty members, administrators, and staff of Jesuit institutions of Higher Education are invited to write an article that meets the requirements established for this third issue on the basis below.

English, Spanish or French manuscripts are accepted. The articles must be sent to this email address before May 30th, 2022.

Sincerely,

Academic Advisor Committee for the Issue N°3 on Best Practices in Reconciliation in Jesuit Higher Education Institutions:

- Susana Di Trolío, Executive Secretary of the Kircher Network.
- Elías López, S.J., Chair of the IAJU Task Force on Peace and Reconciliation, Pontifical Comillas University.
- Jacques Haers, S.J., IAJU Task Force on Peace and Reconciliation, Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies, KU Leuven.
- Ma. Camila Mantilla, IAJU Task Force on Peace and Reconciliation, Pontifical Javeriana University-Cali.
- Ana Karen Barragán, IAJU Communication Committee, University of San Francisco.
